

Key Field Ops Inspection Insights

You depend on field inspections to keep your operations going smoothly, but that's barely scratching the surface. Digital field inspection management firm Fulcrum, in conjunction with research firm paradoxes, shares the following insights from its recent eBook.

Why you need a robust digital field ops inspection program

Business Factors

- Improve efficiency of field inspection teams
- Enhanced data sharing between teams, clients, and regulators
- Reduced reporting time
- Decreases reporting errors

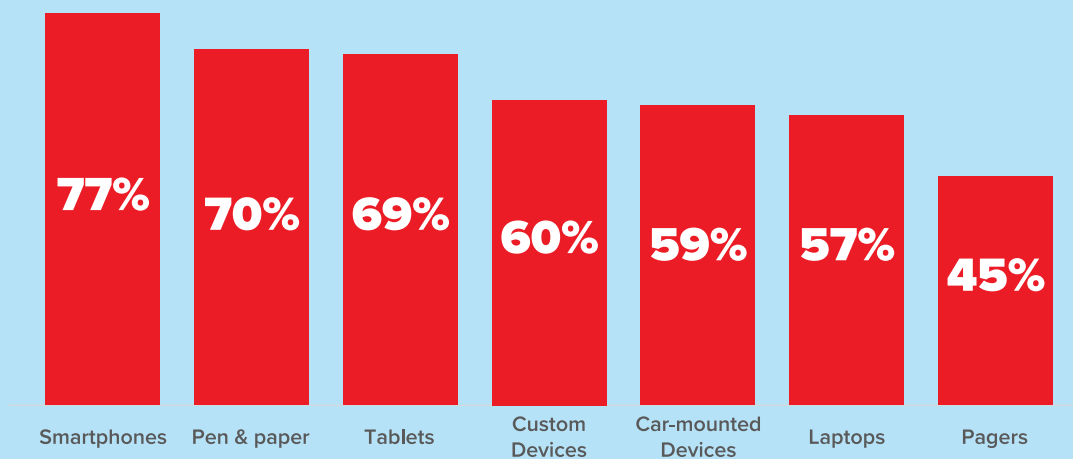

Human Factors

- Improved customer satisfaction and operational transparency
- Reduced field worker location mishaps, wasted time in office, data entry requirements
- Boosted employee morale

How field ops data is collected

Most organizations collect field inspection data both online and offline, with smartphones coming in as the most popular method. Incredibly, 70% of respondents indicate they still collect some data using pen and paper.

Technology employees have access to for collecting data in the field

Top obstacles to getting the right data

- Complexity of data collection.....37%
- File size of data (i.e., images, video).....37%
- Volume of data collection.....36%
- Training staff31%
- Too many steps in data collection.....28%
- High staff turnover.....28%

Organizational field inspection needs

- Saving time and speeding data entry.....31%
- Simplifying tools and workflows.....28%
- Customizable data entry28%
- Real-time visibility of assets and on-the-fly..... 28% rescheduling
- Enabling easier/faster data analysis.....27%
- Better data capture technology solutions.....27%

Intrigued? This is only a snippet of the stats and insights available from our free research-heavy eBook.

Check it out today!